2023 IMPACT REPORT

In 2023, JP Baltimore grew from one visionary executive director and our first cohort of 69 moms and kids to five full-time staff, more than 130 moms and kids, and a host of community partners and local supporters.

2023 was our first full year offering 2Gen supports to single moms and their children in Baltimore. Thanks to our incredible network of community partners, 44 new moms completed JP's three-month Empowerment and Leadership program — designed to move women from gratitude to agency and anchor them in their strengths. Of these women, 93% made the decision to continue their economic mobility journey with JP.

In September, we moved into a beautiful new office with a dedicated kids' play area. The new office is located at the nexus of many resources for our families, including the Baltimore City Office of Child Support Services. We held an open house in October, celebrating our program's one-year anniversary and featuring a conversation with JP's president and CEO and several JP Baltimore moms.

“I didn't know you could have a balanced life: you can go to school, you can go to work, and then you can also parent. But coming here, being a part of the JP program, I learned that you can have a balance.” —JP BALTIMORE MOM

In 2023, Jeremiah Program celebrated 25 years of single mother sisterhood, leadership, and community.

2023 may have been a milestone year for Jeremiah Program (JP), but it was also a year of firsts. We held our first in-person summit in Austin, TX, bringing together more than 300 JP moms, alumni, kids, staff, and supporters for a weekend of learning, sisterhood, and community. We launched a new Early Childhood Education (ECE) Fellowship for teachers in JP's five Child Development Centers (CDCs) and JP moms interested in pursuing degrees in ECE. In August, more than 100 JP direct-service staff convened in Fargo, ND, for our first-ever program retreat. Through shared and role-specific training opportunities, the retreat helped break down program silos and better integrate the JP family experience. In 2023, JP Baltimore and JP Las Vegas celebrated their one-year anniversaries. Since 2022, our Baltimore and Las Vegas communities have grown from two visionary executive directors and our first cohort of 104 families to 10 full-time staff, 317 families, and a host of community partners and local supporters. Finally, we published JP's first-ever annual report magazine, Imagine, a project that looks back at JP's 25-year history while also looking to the future.

“If we are supportive of single mothers and their children, we’re just leveling up society overall.”
